APHIS Seeks Comment on Proposed Import Market Access for Fresh Passion Fruit From Viet Nam into the United States

The U.S. Department of Agriculture’s Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) is seeking public comment on a proposal to authorize the importation of fresh passion fruit (Passiflora edulis) for consumption from Viet Nam into the United States. Fresh passion fruit from Viet Nam is currently not permitted to enter into the United States.

Based on the findings of a pest risk analysis, APHIS has determined that this commodity can be safely imported under specific safeguarding measures outlined in the risk management document.

APHIS is making the pest risk analysis and supporting documents available to the public in the Federal Register for a 60-day comment period. Beginning October 19, 2026, members of the public can view the documents and submit comments by going to www.regulations.gov and entering "APHIS-2026-364-1" in the search field.
