2023-APHIS-06528-F	Pokharel, Mandira	SUNY College of Environmental Science and Forestry	I am writing to submit a formal request under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. § 552, to obtain information pertaining to the importation of tropical timber by the United States. Based on our literature review, the 2008 Amendment of the US Lacey Act requires disclosing the full scientific name (genus and species) while importing any wild member of the plant kingdom for the "Plant and Plant Product Declaration Form". Our team here at State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry is doing research on the importation of potentially endangered tropical timber species by the US using common names only. After extensive search, it has come to our attention that no existing database provides timber trade data specifying the scientific names of all the imported timber products. I wanted to assure you that we did look at the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service GATS database, however, like the other databases, the trade data provided there also are detailed upto HS and other codes which is not species specific. The website of APHIS mentions "APHIS is responsible for collecting declarations for imported plants and plant products." Therefore, we kindly request your assistance in providing us with the following information: 1. Detailed import data for tropical timber species imported by the United States for the years 2008 to 2022, including the year of import, country of origin, scientific names (genus and species), quantity imported (in cubic meters or other appropriate units), and any other available information related to the imports. We understand that compiling the requested data might require substantial effort and resources. However, obtaining this information would greatly contribute to the accuracy and comprehensiveness of our research, enabling us to better assess the impact of tropical timber trade on endangered species and conservation efforts.	9/22/2023
