

Please note: These procedures may be revised as the situation develops. This new version does not contain substantive updates.

For zones, areas, and premises definitions, please review the HPAI Incident 2014-2015: Ready Reference Guide—Overview of Zones.

OVERVIEW

- ◆ Movement control is a critical activity to prevent transmission of highly pathogenic avian influenza (HPAI) from Infected Premises.
- ◆ Movement control of animals, animal products, potential fomites, and other potentially contaminated materials or conveyances ensures that the response activities pose a negligible risk of further HPAI transmission from premises inside the Control Area.
- ◆ Quarantines are imposed on Infected, Contact, and Suspect Premises; managed movement efforts (like the Secure Food Supply Plans) and movement controls focus on At-Risk and Monitored Premises in the Control Area.
- ◆ Movement control and permit processes will change over time depending on situational awareness and operational capabilities.

GENERAL GUIDANCE

- ◆ In this incident, State Animal Health Officials and Unified Incident Management Teams provide oversight for intrastate movements, unless a USDA Extraordinary Emergency Declaration is requested.
- ◆ State Animal Health Officials, APHIS Officials, and Unified Incident Command provide oversight for interstate and international movement controls and corresponding permits.
- ◆ Please note, affected States may establish additional enhanced active surveillance and testing criteria for premises located in Free Areas within their State. As an example, this could include pre-movement testing for live poultry or hatching eggs from premises in a county or the State.
