

Copyright Release Form for U.S. Government Publications

Under United States Copyright Law, authors who are not U.S. Government employees may possess copyright interest in articles printed in U.S. Government publications. To enable the USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service to widely disseminate in various media the information shared at the International Conference of Avian Influenza and Poultry Trade, we ask authors who are not U.S. Government employees sign the following release:

For _____, my (our) article/speech titled:

by:

(list all authors)

I (We) as author(s) / speaker (s) authorize publication of this information in printed or electronic format, for hardcopy or internet or CD-ROM dissemination, so that audiences will have unlimited access to the information. I (We) understand that by signing this agreement, this paper is in the public domain.

Senior author signature

Date

Co-author

Co-author

Co-author

Authors who are employees of the U.S. Government and who wrote and submitted papers as part of their official assignments, do not need to sign this release because your documents are in the public domain and are not subject to copyright.