Canine Distemper- Adenovirus Type 2 Vaccine Modified Live Virus

NEOVAC™ DA2

Directions: For use as an aid in the prevention of disease due to Canine Distemper Virus and Canine Adenovirus Type 1 (infectious canine hepatitis virus). Aseptically rehydrate vaccine with diluent supplied. Inject 1 dose (1 mL) subcutaneously into dogs that are at least 42 days of age. Because there is potential for maternal antibody to interfere with the immune response to the original vaccination, revaccinate every 14 to 28 days until the dog is 16 weeks of age. Dogs over 16 weeks of age should receive a single dose (1 mL). Revaccinate annually with one dose.

Precautions: Store at 2-7°C (35-45°F). Shake well during rehydration. Use entire contents when first opened. Do not vaccinate pregnant or lactating bitches, sick, or debilitated dogs. Occasionally, transient corneal opacity may occur following the administration of this product. In case of anaphylaxis; epinephrine, corticosteroids, and antihistamines may all be indicated depending on the nature and severity of the reaction. Gentamicin used as a preservative. Burn this container and all unused contents.

Canine Distemper-
Adenovirus Type 2 Vaccine
Modified Live Virus

NEOVAC™ DA2

Directions: For use as an aid in the prevention of disease due to Canine Distemper Virus and Canine Adenovirus Type 1 (infectious canine hepatitis virus). Aseptically rehydrate vaccine with diluent supplied. Inject 1 dose (1 mL) subcutaneously into dogs that are at least 42 days of age. Because there is potential for maternal antibody to interfere with the immune response to the original vaccination, revaccinate every 14 to 28 days until the dog is 16 weeks of age. Dogs over 16 weeks of age should receive a single dose (1 mL). Revaccinate annually with one dose.

Precautions: Store at 2-7°C (35-45°F). Shake well during rehydration. Use entire contents when first opened. Do not vaccinate pregnant or lactating bitches, sick, or debilitated dogs. Occasionally, transient corneal opacity may occur following the administration of this product. In case of anaphylaxis; epinephrine, corticosteroids, and antihistamines may all be indicated depending on the nature and severity of the reaction. Gentamicin used as a preservative. Burn this container and all unused contents.
