History: This message has been replied to.

Hi Denise,

My flight arrives at Chicago/Midway at 3:50 p.m. I'm not sure how far Midway is from O'Hare, but if you need a ride let me know. Also, I had to stay at the Fairfield Inn as the Residence Inn was full. The guy in reservations told me it was only a short distance away.

Subject This week in Chicago

Hi [Redacted]

I have a flight arriving Chicago O'hare tomorrow at noon. I can take the train to the hotel unless you're going to be there and getting the car around that time. I have a meeting with the local Animal and Control Director tomorrow afternoon. Time is dependant on when I get in.

ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

<<Each dealer or exhibitor shall establish and maintain programs of adequate veterinary care that include: The use of appropriate methods to prevent, control, diagnose, and treat diseases and injuries,>>

During a prior inspection performed on 10/08/10, APHIS requested copies of medical records for the elephants. The records show a lack of adequate diagnostics, treatment plans, and follow-up treatments necessary to provide adequate veterinary care.

In particular, the licensee's records show that Sara (a 9 yr old Asian elephant) has had chronic lameness since early 2009, and that the licensee has not conducted adequate diagnostics, developed an adequate treatment plan, or ensured that the elephant received prescribed treatments. Radiographs were taken in April 2009, but no treatment was prescribed at that time although the attending veterinarians subsequently recommended various diagnostics and, intermittently, prescribed analgesics (including on performance days) in response to reports of lameness or "stiffness". There is no indication that Sara has received recommended diagnostics to determine the cause(s) of her lameness and prescribed analgesics. To date, the licensee's veterinarians have different opinions about the causes of Sara's lameness and have not made a clear assessment about the cause of Sara's condition or how to prevent, control, and treat it.

The licensee shall conduct the tests necessary to diagnose health problems and develop methods to prevent, control, and treat them.

ACCESS AND INSPECTION OF RECORDS AND PROPERTY.

<< (a) Each exhibitor shall, during business hours, allow APHIS officials: (1) To enter its place of business; (4) To inspect and photograph the facilities, property and animals, as the APHIS officials consider necessary to enforce the provisions of the Act, the regulations and the standards in this subchapter; >>

APHIS understood that the licensee's animal husbandry activities typically begin between 6:30 and 7:00 AM and sought to inspect the animals first thing in the morning to assess health issues. APHIS officials arrived at the United Center in Chicago, IL, to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals. No persons were observed near the licensee's trailers and tents so APHIS contacted security personnel for the United Center at 7:00 AM for access to conduct the inspection. The Security Supervisor contacted the General Manager for the United Center by telephone and he asked to speak with APHIS officials at 7:20 AM. The United Center General Manager stated that the animals were not housed in the building and that we would need to go to the area Ringling occupied on the grounds and locate a representative of the circus. He provided a contact number for the Ringling Bros Blue Unit General Manager. APHIS officials called the Ringling General Manager at 7:23 AM but only reached a voice mail message. A detailed message was left explaining our need for access to conduct an inspection of the animals. APHIS officials followed the United Center General Manager's directions and moved the government vehicle off of the grounds and attempted to locate a circus representative. APHIS officials went to the gate as directed and spoke with 3 circus representatives who had previously accompanied APHIS officials during inspections of the licensee's animals and facilities (Assistant General Manager, Animal Superintendent, Senior Elephant Handler) at approximately 7:50 AM who denied access to perform an inspection at that time. The Senior Elephant Handler stated that United Center security had previously informed him of APHIS' arrival but that he was instructed (by upper Ringling management) not to allow access for inspection until the Ringling General Manager and Attending Veterinarian arrived. APHIS officials were not allowed to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals until approximately 8:15 AM.

APHIS officials were unable to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals during the critical time period because the licensee denied access to APHIS officials and delayed inspection for approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Correction: Licensee must allow APHIS officials to enter its place of business and inspect the facilities, property, and animals upon request during business hours. The licensee is responsible for making the arrangements necessary to provide such access, regardless of location.

PRIMARY ENCLOSURES USED TO TRANSPORT LIVE ANIMALS.

<< Primary enclosures, such as compartments, transport cages, cartons, or crates, used to transport live animals shall be constructed in such a manner that the interior of the enclosure shall be free from any protrusions that could be injurious to the live animals contained therein;>>

On July 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Asha was injured sustaining abrasions over her right eye. Notes state that the animal scraped her forehead on trailer ride from the train to the building. On October 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Rudy had an abrasion over the right eyebrow noted during unloading from the transport vehicle.

The licensee stated that it routinely uses the same trailer to transport Rudy, Asha, Bonnie, and Barack. During this inspection, APHIS examined the transport trailer used to transport these elephants from the licensee's train to the performance venue. It had numerous burnished bolts in an elevated compartment which serves as a compartment or primary enclosure for the animals. Several of these bolts have sharp edges on their sides which could cause injury to these animals during transport.

ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

<<Each dealer or exhibitor shall establish and maintain programs of adequate veterinary care that include: The use of appropriate methods to prevent, control, diagnose, and treat diseases and injuries,>>

During a prior inspection performed on 10/08/10, APHIS requested copies of medical records for the elephants. The records show a lack of adequate diagnostics, treatment plans, and follow-up treatments necessary to provide adequate veterinary care.

In particular, the licensee's records show that Sara (a 9 yr old Asian elephant) has had chronic lameness since early 2009, and that the licensee has not conducted adequate diagnostics, developed an adequate treatment plan, or ensured that the elephant received prescribed treatments. Radiographs were taken in April 2009, but no treatment was prescribed at that time although the attending veterinarians subsequently recommended various diagnostics and, intermittently, prescribed analgesics (including on performance days) in response to reports of lameness or "stiffness". There is no indication that Sara has received recommended diagnostics to determine the cause(s) of her lameness and prescribed analgesics. To date, the licensee's veterinarians have different opinions about the causes of Sara's lameness and have not made a clear assessment about the cause of Sara's condition or how to prevent, control, and treat it.

The licensee shall conduct the tests necessary to diagnose health problems and develop methods to prevent, control, and treat them.

arrived at the United Center in Chicago, IL, to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals. No persons were observed near the licensee's trailers and tents so APHIS contacted security personnel for the United Center at 7:00 AM for access to conduct the inspection. The Security Supervisor contacted the General Manager for the United Center by telephone and he asked to speak with APHIS officials at 7:20 AM. The United Center General Manager stated that the animals were not housed in the building and that we would need to go to the area Ringling occupied on the grounds and locate a representative of the circus. He provided a contact number for the Ringling Bros Blue Unit General Manager. APHIS officials called the Ringling General Manager at 7:23 AM but only reached a voice mail message. A detailed message was left explaining our need for access to conduct an inspection of the animals. APHIS officials followed the United Center General Manager's directions and moved the government vehicle off of the grounds and attempted to locate a circus representative. APHIS officials went to the gate as directed and spoke with 3 circus representatives who had previously accompanied APHIS officials during inspections of the licensee's animals and facilities (Assistant General Manager, Animal Superintendent, Senior Elephant Handler) at approximately 7:50 AM who denied access to perform an inspection at that time. The Senior Elephant Handler stated that United Center security had previously informed him of APHIS' arrival but that he was instructed (by upper Ringling management) not to allow access for inspection until the Ringling General Manager and Attending Veterinarian arrived. APHIS officials were not allowed to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals until approximately 8:15 AM.

APHIS officials were unable to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals during the critical time period because the licensee denied access to APHIS officials and delayed inspection for approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Correction: Licensee must allow APHIS officials to enter its place of business and inspect the facilities, property, and animals upon request during business hours. The licensee is responsible for making the arrangements necessary to provide such access, regardless of location.

PRIMARY ENCLOSURES USED TO TRANSPORT LIVE ANIMALS.

<< Primary enclosures, such as compartments, transport cages, cartons, or crates, used to transport live animals shall be constructed in such a manner that the interior of the enclosure shall be free from any protrusions that could be injurious to the live animals contained therein;>>

On July 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Asha was injured sustaining abrasions over her right eye. Notes state that the animal scraped her forehead on trailer ride from the train to the building. On October 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Rudy had an abrasion over the right eyebrow noted during unloading from the transport vehicle.

The licensee stated that it routinely uses the same trailer to transport Rudy, Asha, Bonnie, and Barack. During this inspection, APHIS examined the transport trailer used to transport these elephants from the licensee's train to the performance venue. It had numerous burnished bolts in an elevated compartment which serves as a compartment or primary enclosure for the animals. Several of these bolts have sharp edges on their sides which could cause injury to these animals during transport.

ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

<<Each dealer or exhibitor shall establish and maintain programs of adequate veterinary care that include: The use of appropriate methods to prevent, control, diagnose, and treat diseases and injuries,>>

For several of the elephants there is no documentation at the facility that establishes that follow up diagnostics, treatment plans, and/or treatments were given. In the absence of written documentation there is no way to tell if any of the above next steps occurred. It cannot be determined that adequate care was provided to the animals and that they received adequate follow up exams and treatment by the licensee.

Kelly Ann -- possible colic incident reported on February 11, 2009 with a note that a veterinarian (not indicated on the report as to which veterinarian was contacted) would be on the unit later that week to recheck her. There is no written documentation that a veterinarian evaluated this animal and no evidence of any follow up with this problem. In the absence of written documentation, it cannot be determined that adequate veterinary care was provided to this animal.

Sara: On February 13-15, 2009, Banamine was prescribed SID (once a day) IM (intramuscular) for 3 days but there are no records to show that this treatment was followed as prescribed. On April 13-16, 2009 a note states this 9 yr old elephant has a history of lameness in her left hind limb. Radiographs were taken of the tarsus and stifle joints and minor changes were noted in the tarsus. No treatment was prescribed at this time and no indication was made as to whether this animal was lame at the time of this exam. A repeat of the radiographs was recommended at one year from this exam. Sometime in May 2009, another facility veterinarian found evidence that the "left ankle has a healing cracked tip of the calcaneous bone" and prescribed analgesic as needed. No indication as to the animal's current level of lameness at the time of this report nor which analgesic, route, dose, etc.. would be best for her condition. On July 27, 2009, this animal is reported by a handler to be stiff on the right hind and 20 mls of Banamine were prescribed. On July 28, 2009, she is still reported as stiff on her right hind and 15 mls of Banamine as needed were prescribed. Additionally, a knot on right hind shin area was noted. The plan states to radiograph and ultrasound in the next week but no written documentation was available to show that this occurred. Sara is reported as lame again on September 12 and September 15, 2009 and is prescribed a dose of Banamine but no there is no documentation as to whether this was administered or whether the lameness improved.

On April 17, 2010, Sara is noted to have a right hind limb lameness and is prescribed Banamine as needed. On April 23, 10, two other facility veterinarians suggest a change to the performance routine for Sara to reduce activities that appear to produce lameness in her left hind limb. Adequan and Ibuprofen are prescribed with a provision for an additional analgesic, Etogesic, to be given if needed. On August 15-17, 2010, she is still reported to have intermittent stiffness and that Etogesic treatment is to be continued as needed. From September 6-11, 2010, Sara is diagnosed with occasional stiffness and to continue Etogesic once daily on performance days. This elephant continues to have repeated problems with lameness or stiffness yet there is no documentation to show that any of this treatment is being followed as directed so it cannot be determined if adequate veterinary care is being provided for this animal by the licensee.

Julliette: February 2, 2009 report of "off on RH" (Right Hind limb) and was prescribed 15 cc Banamine with no indication which veterinarian was contacted other than they would be on later that week to recheck. No notes were made again for this animal until April 1-4, 2009 so it is unclear whether a veterinarian evaluated this animal to see if treatment was successful or given according to the directions. The elephant was noted to be stiff in the LH (Left Hind limb) on April 1-4, 2009 and was prescribed 20 cc Banamine IM (intramuscular) and to use 15 cc Banamine IM bid (twice a day) through Sunday. There is no written documentation indicating whether the treatment was followed as directed and the elephant continues to be reported as 'stiff'. Treatment repeatedly was prescribed but there is no written documentation to determine if the treatment was given as directed so it cannot be determined if adequate veterinary care is being provided for this animal by the licensee.

Licensee shall maintain documentation regarding treatments for regulated species as part of the program of adequate veterinary care to show the use of the appropriate methods to prevent, control, diagnose, and treat diseases and injuries.

ATTENDING VETERINARIAN AND ADEQUATE VETERINARY CARE (DEALERS AND EXHIBITORS).

<<Each dealer or exhibitor shall establish and maintain programs of adequate veterinary care that include: The use of appropriate methods to prevent, control, diagnose, and treat diseases and injuries,>>

During a prior inspection performed on 10/08/10, APHIS requested copies of medical records for the elephants. The records show a lack of adequate diagnostics, treatment plans, and follow-up treatments necessary to provide adequate veterinary care.

In particular, the licensee's records show that Sara (a 9 yr old Asian elephant) has had chronic lameness since early 2009, and that the licensee has not conducted adequate diagnostics, developed an adequate treatment plan, or ensured that the elephant received prescribed treatments. Radiographs were taken in April 2009, but no treatment was prescribed at that time although the attending veterinarians subsequently recommended various diagnostics and, intermittently, prescribed analgesics (including on performance days) in response to reports of lameness or "stiffness". There is no indication that Sara has received recommended diagnostics to determine the cause(s) of her lameness and prescribed analgesics. To date, the licensee's veterinarians have different opinions about the causes of Sara's lameness and have not made a clear assessment about the cause of Sara's condition or how to prevent, control, and treat it.

The licensee shall conduct the tests necessary to diagnose health problems and develop methods to prevent, control, and treat them.

arrived at the United Center in Chicago, IL, to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals. No persons were observed near the licensee's trailers and tents so APHIS contacted security personnel for the United Center at 7:00 AM for access to conduct the inspection. The Security Supervisor contacted the General Manager for the United Center by telephone and he asked to speak with APHIS officials at 7:20 AM. The United Center General Manager stated that the animals were not housed in the building and that we would need to go to the area Ringling occupied on the grounds and locate a representative of the circus. He provided a contact number for the Ringling Bros Blue Unit General Manager. APHIS officials called the Ringling General Manager at 7:23 AM but only reached a voice mail message. A detailed message was left explaining our need for access to conduct an inspection of the animals. APHIS officials followed the United Center General Manager's directions and moved the government vehicle off of the grounds and attempted to locate a circus representative. APHIS officials went to the gate as directed and spoke with 3 circus representatives who had previously accompanied APHIS officials during inspections of the licensee's animals and facilities (Assistant General Manager, Animal Superintendent, Senior Elephant Handler) at approximately 7:50 AM who denied access to perform an inspection at that time. The Senior Elephant Handler stated that United Center security had previously informed him of APHIS' arrival but that he was instructed (by upper Ringling management) not to allow access for inspection until the Ringling General Manager and Attending Veterinarian arrived. APHIS officials were not allowed to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals until approximately 8:15 AM.

APHIS officials were unable to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals during the critical time period because the licensee denied access to APHIS officials and delayed inspection for approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Correction: Licensee must allow APHIS officials to enter its place of business and inspect the facilities, property, and animals upon request during business hours. The licensee is responsible for making the arrangements necessary to provide such access, regardless of location.

PRIMARY ENCLOSURES USED TO TRANSPORT LIVE ANIMALS.

<< Primary enclosures, such as compartments, transport cages, cartons, or crates, used to transport live animals shall be constructed in such a manner that the interior of the enclosure shall be free from any protrusions that could be injurious to the live animals contained therein;>>

On July 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Asha was injured sustaining abrasions over her right eye. Notes state that the animal scraped her forehead on trailer ride from the train to the building. On October 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Rudy had an abrasion over the right eyebrow noted during unloading from the transport vehicle.

The licensee stated that it routinely uses the same trailer to transport Rudy, Asha, Bonnie, and Barack. During this inspection, APHIS examined the transport trailer used to transport these elephants from the licensee's train to the performance venue. It had numerous burnished bolts in an elevated compartment which serves as a compartment or primary enclosure for the animals. Several of these bolts have sharp edges on their sides which could cause injury to these animals during transport.

Radiographs were taken in April 2009, but no treatment was prescribed at that time although the attending veterinarians subsequently recommended various diagnostics and, intermittently, prescribed analgesics (including on performance days) in response to reports of lameness or "stiffness". There is no indication that Sara has received recommended diagnostics to determine the cause(s) of her lameness and prescribed analgesics. To date, the licensee's veterinarians have different opinions about the causes of Sara's lameness and have not made a clear assessment about the cause of Sara's condition or how to prevent, control, and treat it.

The licensee shall conduct the tests necessary to diagnose health problems and develop methods to prevent, control, and treat them.

arrived at the United Center in Chicago, IL, to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals. No persons were observed near the licensee's trailers and tents so APHIS contacted security personnel for the United Center at 7:00 AM for access to conduct the inspection. The Security Supervisor contacted the General Manager for the United Center by telephone and he asked to speak with APHIS officials at 7:20 AM. The United Center General Manager stated that the animals were not housed in the building and that we would need to go to the area Ringling occupied on the grounds and locate a representative of the circus. He provided a contact number for the Ringling Bros Blue Unit General Manager. APHIS officials called the Ringling General Manager at 7:23 AM but only reached a voice mail message. A detailed message was left explaining our need for access to conduct an inspection of the animals. APHIS officials followed the United Center General Manager's directions and moved the government vehicle off of the grounds and attempted to locate a circus representative. APHIS officials went to the gate as directed and spoke with 3 circus representatives who had previously accompanied APHIS officials during inspections of the licensee's animals and facilities (Assistant General Manager, Animal Superintendent, Senior Elephant Handler) at approximately 7:50 AM who denied access to perform an inspection at that time. The Senior Elephant Handler stated that United Center security had previously informed him of APHIS' arrival but that he was instructed (by upper Ringling management) not to allow access for inspection until the Ringling General Manager and Attending Veterinarian arrived. APHIS officials were not allowed to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals until approximately 8:15 AM.

APHIS officials were unable to inspect the licensee's facilities and animals during the critical time period because the licensee denied access to APHIS officials and delayed inspection for approximately 1 hour and 15 minutes.

Correction: Licensee must allow APHIS officials to enter its place of business and inspect the facilities, property, and animals upon request during business hours. The licensee is responsible for making the arrangements necessary to provide such access, regardless of location.

PRIMARY ENCLOSURES USED TO TRANSPORT LIVE ANIMALS.

<< Primary enclosures, such as compartments, transport cages, cartons, or crates, used to transport live animals shall be constructed in such a manner that the interior of the enclosure shall be free from any protrusions that could be injurious to the live animals contained therein;>>

On July 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Asha was injured sustaining abrasions over her right eye. Notes state that the animal scraped her forehead on trailer ride from the train to the building. On October 19, 2010 the licensee documents that Asian elephant Rudy had an abrasion over the right eyebrow noted during unloading from the transport vehicle.

The licensee stated that it routinely uses the same trailer to transport Rudy, Asha, Bonnie, and Barack. During this inspection, APHIS examined the transport trailer used to transport these elephants from the licensee's train to the performance venue. It had numerous burnished bolts in an elevated compartment which serves as a compartment or primary enclosure for the animals. Several of these bolts have sharp edges on their sides which could cause injury to these animals during transport.

During a prior inspection performed on 10/08/10, APHIS requested copies of medical records for the elephants. The records show a lack of adequate diagnostics, treatment plans, and follow-up treatments necessary to provide adequate veterinary care.

In particular, the licensee's records show that Sara (a 9 yr old Asian elephant) has had chronic lameness since early 2009, and that the licensee has not conducted adequate diagnostics, developed an adequate treatment plan, or ensured that the elephant received prescribed treatments. Radiographs were taken in April 2009, but no treatment was prescribed at that time although the attending veterinarians subsequently recommended various diagnostics and, intermittently, prescribed analgesics (including on performance days) in response to reports of lameness or "stiffness".
