The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) Biotechnology Regulatory Services (BRS) is updating its compliance reporting features in APHIS eFile. BRS permit holders using APHIS eFile will experience:

- Faster page response times with pop-up window style data entry
- Easier to sort and navigate XML table with auto-refresh to show upload progress
- A new look and feel to match BRS Permit Applications
- An ability to delete supporting documents before submission
- An ability to create and upload larger reports and generate larger PDF reports

To help use these new tools, BRS has updated its APHIS 2000 Permit Application and Compliance Reporting Job Aid and training resources on the website at: USDA APHIS | APHIS eFile Training
