Incentive Uses

- Be used to recruit current Federal employees from other agencies
- Follow Agency employees who leave to work for another Federal agency (including other USDA agencies). The gaining agency is not obligated to continue making any previously agreed upon loan payments.

In determining the amount of loan repayments, take into account your employee's value to the agency and how far in advance you can commit funds. If budgetary considerations are an issue, you can determine the repayment benefit every year (you must include this consideration in your written agreement with your employee).

Limits on Loan Payments

Payment amounts are subject to the following limits:

$10,000 per employee per calendar year, and

A total career payment of $60,000 per employee (per Public Law 108-123).

Note: You may repay more than one loan as long as the loan repayments do not exceed the allowable limits.

- Payments may only be applied to the indebtedness existing at the time you and your employee enter into the agreement.
- Payments may not begin before your employee enters on duty.
- Loan benefits are in addition to basic pay and any other form of compensation payable to your employee.
- The use of this incentive is not subject to the aggregate limitation on pay.
- The National Finance Center (NFC) will make payments directly to the holder of the loan by electronic funds transfer.
- MRP agencies are not responsible for paying lender-assessed late fees for late loan payments. Employees are responsible for any late fees.

Loan Payment Facts

Note: Human Resources Division's Leave and Compensation Unit, Minneapolis, Minnesota, in conjunction with NFC, will work diligently to ensure that the timing of payments to the lender coincides with the date the loan payment is due.

Other Available
Pay
Flexibilities

You may use this incentive in addition to other pay flexibilities (e.g., Recruitment bonus, retention allowance).
