APHIS Updates its Agricultural Quarantine and Inspection User Fee Web Page

Print

(Due to technology issues beyond our control, our stakeholder announcement was delayed.)

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) updated the Agricultural Quarantine and Inspection (AQI) User Fees web page (227.04 KB) to reflect the October 1, 2024, revised regulations.

The updated content is clear, concise, and will help customers understand and comply with AQI user fee regulations. Additionally, if you have suggestions to improve the web page, email us at aqi.user.fees@usda.gov.

The AQI program uses a system of safeguards to facilitate the safe trade of agricultural commodities and protect U.S. agriculture and natural resources from invasive plant pests and animal diseases. APHIS and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Customs and Border Protection carry out AQI activities at all U.S. ports of entry. You can learn more about the AQI program on APHIS' website.
