

Purified Antibodies

European Union authorities have verified that purified antibodies are not considered animal by-products. No certification should be required for purified antibodies not mixed with other animal-origin material.

If antibodies are contained in an animal origin medium, then the import may be subject to Regulation (EU) 142/2011 requirements.