New Castle Disease Related Restrictions on Products Exported from U.S.A. to the Russian Federation

On January 23, 2019, the Russian Federation announced a prohibition on the import of the following products from California:

“poultry meat and all kinds of poultry products that were not heat-treated (no less than 70 degrees Centigrade), feeds and feed additives for birds (except for feed additives of vegetable origin or of chemical and microbiological synthesis), as well as used equipment for keeping, slaughtering and cutting birds.”