

Non-Animal Origin Materials Intended for Human or Livestock Consumption

The Russian Federation requires certifications for non-animal origin human food/livestock feed (and food/feed ingredients) that cannot be endorsed by Veterinary Services.

FDA may be able to provide some certification for some of these materials.

Exporters of grains should consult APHIS PPQ.

Exception: Synthetically produced materials that do not contain any items of plant or animal origin: No government certification is required or should be endorsed for these materials.

Please see “Pet food” for information on the requirements to export to the Russian Federation pet food not containing animal-origin ingredients.