

Ornamental Egg Shells
(Egg Shells not Exported for Consumption or Use in Agriculture)

Egg shells that are exported to Korea only for ornamental purposes (e.g. blown ostrich eggs for painting) only require the following certification. No additional statements should be included on the export certificate.

This is to certify that rinderpest, foot-and-mouth disease, classical swine fever, swine vesicular disease, African swine fever, and contagious bovine pleuropneumonia do not exist in the United States of America.

The egg shells have been disinfected through the following process: [insert details of disinfection process including at least the identification of the disinfectant].
