

Export of Shell Eggs to Russia

Table egg imports are generally not permitted into the Russian Federation. However, exceptions may be made by regional veterinarians. Shell eggs may be exported if

- 1) the exporter gets an official letter from the veterinary authority in the importing region stating that they will permit specific shipments from the U.S., and
- 2) the veterinary authority gives us specific certification requirements with which we can comply.