

Leather and Products Based on Animal Skins, Including Drums to Trinidad and Tobago

Finished leather and other finished animal products intended for commercial use may be exported to Trinidad and Tobago if shipped with documents that demonstrate processing to mitigate animal disease. A veterinary certificate is not required for finished leather products, such as leather bags, shoes and belts.

Commercial shipments of drums should be accompanied by documents demonstrating processing including the use of sufficient heat or chemical treatment to mitigate disease risk. In the event that the drums originate from countries other than the United States, the government of Trinidad and Tobago reserves the right to require evidence of legal importation into the United States and may also require evidence of mitigation sufficiently efficacious so as to mitigate risk from anthrax.