As the Deputy Administrator for Wildlife Services, I want to reaffirm the Wildlife Services Civil Policy with you and underscore why our collective commitment to a diverse workforce is critical to our success as a program. In the current Administrator's Civil Rights policy letter dated June 23, 2011, Dr. Gregory L. Parham affirms his commitment to providing a discrimination-free workforce; respect the civil rights of all employees, job applicants, clients, and customers; and provide equal opportunity for all.

I am committed to ensuring that Wildlife Services provides innovative workplaces that embrace our employee differences, while integrating the strengths of our coworkers and customers alike. We owe respect to our customers and coworkers, and fair and equitable customer service is our obligation as public servants. In partnership with the Wildlife Services Management Team, I am committed to offering every Wildlife Services employee - regardless of race, color, sex, age, national origin, disability, reprisal, sexual orientation, gender identify and/or expression, marital, parental, or familial status, protected genetic information, or receipt of public assistance - the opportunity to pursue their livelihood and contribute to the mission of the program free of discrimination and harassment.

I am also committed to providing a workplace that is respectful as well as inclusive of our differences as individuals. We must strive to recognize and take advantage of the diverse strengths of our multicultural workforce. Only by joining our individual strengths into a cohesive force, will we attain our full potential.

We all have moral and legal obligations to uphold civil rights. I will work to ensure that Wildlife Services effectively addresses and resolves conflicts and disputes that occur in our workplaces. I am dedicated to upholding these goals, and I am confident that I can count on our Management Team and each and every one of you as we strive to meet these goals while continuing to provide excellent service to our customers.
