National Wildlife Research Center (NWRC)

NWRC Annual Publications List 2003

Articles are available in PDF format. Adobe Acrobat reader: download a free copy.

*NWRC has made digital copies of its authors' published papers available on this website as part of its effort to disseminate research findings. Copies of the papers are to be used for noncommercial, personal and educational purposes only.

If you have any access problems with papers on this site, contact the Web content manager

03-3 ARJO, W. M. 2003. From seedlings to crowns: these species cover it all. Western Forester 48(4):15. 64K

03-6 ARJO, W. M. 2003. The role of toxicants in forest management. Western Forester 48(4):18. 63K

03-29 EISEMANN, J. D., P. A. PIPAS, AND J. L. CUMMINGS. 2003. Acute and chronic toxicity of compound DRC-1339 (3-chloro-4-methylaniline hydrochloride) to birds. Pages 49-63 in George M. Linz, editor. Management of North American blackbirds. National Wildlife Research Center, Fort Collins, Colorado, USA. 201K (An improved copy of Figure 1 is here.)

03-59 MATHIES, T., AND L. A. MILLER. 2003. Cool temperatures elicit reproduction in a biologically invasive predator, the brown treesnake (Boiga irregularis). Zoo Biology 22:227-238. 287K

03-67 NOLTE, D. L. 2003. Developing strategies to alleviate wildlife damage to forest resources. Western Forester 48(4):16-17. 69K

03-70 NOLTE, D. L. 2003. Repellents are socially acceptable tools. Western Forester 48(4):22-23. 74K

Management Working Group of The Wildlife Society, Fort Collins, Colorado, USA. 331K

03-114 WITMER, G. W., R. B. SANDERS, AND A. C. TAFT. 2003. Feral swine--are they a disease threat to livestock

*These 2003 publications received after final compilation of the NWRC 2003 Annual Publications List
